Responsible for some of Prime Central London's most impressive lettings deals over the last decade, Mark Tunstall is the go-to name for those in search of a super-prime property to rent in the capital.

The former boss of Savills' Super-Prime Lettings Department set up his eponymous firm in 2014 and has gone on to establish a compelling independent offering alongside Murdi van Hien.

The numbers do all the talking; deals in the past 12 months have included long lets on a five-bed apartment in One Hyde Park guided at £45,000 per week, a detached 8-bed Chelsea house with pool and parking guided at £40,000 per week, and a detached seven-bed villa in Holland Park backing directly onto the park, guided at £25,000 per week.
